Meet the officials

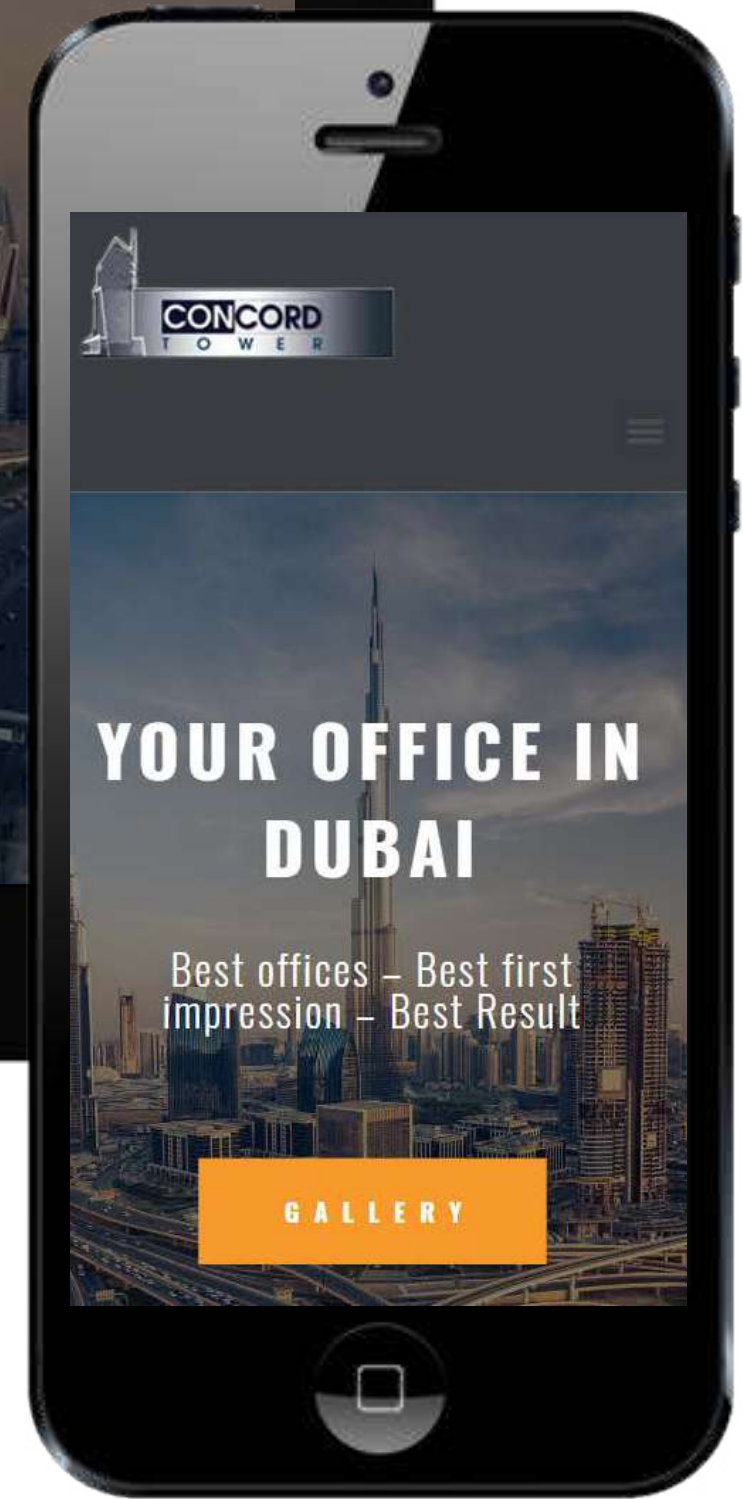

Having experienced the sheer joy of flying and the thrill of achieving success in her field, Sheikha Mozah is determined to do whatever she can to accelerate the development of women in the aviation industry.

In October 2019, she established the Women in Aviation Association (Shehana), to provide support and increase awareness of many opportunities in this exciting field – not only as pilots or crew members but as lawyers, engineers, doctors or other interesting careers that play vital roles in the industry.

The Association was named 'Shehana' after the 'female falcon' in Arabic, which is the most beautiful and the fastest type of falcons. Falcons are the national bird of the
